Insurance Coverage Litigation

Our clients KSLN represents a wide variety of regional, national and international insurers in matters involving insurance coverage law. The firm's insurance coverage lawyers provide a full complement of counseling and litigation services to our clients, and evaluate and litigate complex coverage issues across the state and nationally. Although our focus is in New York, we have served as national coverage counsel to several European clients, and frequently litigate coverage issues in other states.

A team effort We work closely with our clients' in-house counsel and claims and underwriting representatives in the resolution of complex insurance coverage disputes, and regard our representation as a team effort in which both counsel and client play a vital role.

Experienced in the courtroom Our attorneys have a broad range of litigation experience in all state and federal trial-level and appellate courts. We vigorously advocate our clients' interests in an economic and expeditious fashion, pursuing litigation when necessary and engaging in alternative dispute resolution when possible.

Our clients' business objectives drive our approach Our clients' business objectives drive our approach. We have a strong record of resolving disputes prior to trial both by way of strategically positioning cases for summary disposition via summary judgment motions and appellate practice, as well as negotiated settlements. While we are prepared to try any case and win, we understand that the better result for our clients often involves fashioning a business solution consistent with their business goals and philosophy. We take pride in our record of achieving positive results in an efficient, budget-sensitive and cost-effective manner.

Insurance coverage litigation Insurance coverage litigation is becoming an increasingly complex and esoteric area of the law. New theories of liability are constantly being tested. KSLN is frequently called upon to help our clients shape the law on these cutting edge issues. We have the experience, energy and commitment to prepare complex coverage analyses, negotiate solutions to disputes consistent with our clients' objectives, and litigate complex insurance cases with excellence.
